Burglar gets life for beating mother to death

by HOLLYE BLADES
hblades@london.newsquest.co.uk

A teenage burglar has been jailed for life for the brutal murder of mother-of-two Laila Rezk .

Lloyd Edwards, 19, was electronically tagged at the time he murdered Laila in her Kingston Vale home on November 29 last year.

Edwards, of Longmoor Point, Roehampton punched Laila repeatedly in the face and head after she interrupted him trying to burgle her home. He left her dying in a pool of blood on the hallway floor.

Despite efforts to resuscitate her by her son Tamer, a medical student, and his friend Mena, a newly-qualified doctor, Laila died the following day at St George's Hospital, Tooting.

At Kingston Crown Court on Thursday, exactly one year after her death, Edwards was sentenced to life in prison for her murder and will serve a minimum of 18 years.

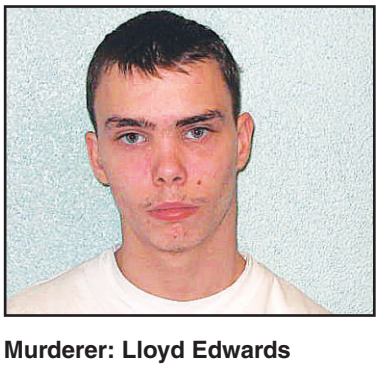

At the time of her death, Edwards, an amateur boxer, should have been serving a prison sentence for assault, but had been released two months early from the young offender's institute at the discretion of the Home Office and was electronically tagged instead.

Detectives investigating Laila's murder were not told by the private company in charge of monitoring Edwards' tag that he had called in more than 90 minutes late on the day of the murder. He was eventually arrested last February after committing another burglary and his fingerprints were found to match one at the murder scene.

In 2006, more than 1,000 violent crimes, including five murders, were committed by tagged offenders. Susan Kramer, MP for Richmond which includes Kingston Vale, said: "The key issue here is that people should just serve the sentences they are given. This expediency of early release is leaving victims and families feeling that they are not getting justice."

Laila's family also hit out at the Home Office for deciding to release Edwards early despite a criminal record for assault and burglary that began at the age of just 12. Laila's 23-year-old daughter Dina, said: "We feel as a family and a community that this is a travesty. This crime was a result of institutional failures and negligence on the part of government departments, who have failed to adequately protect our society. The history of this young man shows that he has never accepted responsibility for his actions and he has never had any sense of genuine remorse."

Director's musical return

by HOLLYE BLADES
hblades@london.newsquest.co.uk

Children aged 10 to 18 can audition for a role in a forthcoming production at the new Rose Theatre.

More than 20 years after The Ragged Child was premiered at Tiffin School, its original director is returning to Kingston.

The muscial play was first performed in Kingston in 1986 and tells the tale of young Joe Cooper and his little sister Annie in the London of 1849.

The moving story follows their struggle for survival and of Lord Shaftesbury and his efforts to improve the lot of London's poor.

On April 9, a production directed by original writer Frank Whately will open at the Rose Theatre featuring Kingston University students.

But the company will also feature 20 girls and boys aged 10 to 18 from local schools.

Auditions will take place on Sunday, December 16, at the Rose Theatre.

Mr Whately, now the head of the school of performance and screen studies at Kingston University, and a director of Kingston Theatre Trust, said: "We are looking forward to auditioning girls and boys from all our local schools to join the company which will include students from the University in this exciting production.

"The first round of auditions will give Kingston's young people an opportunity to experience the wonderful new stage at first hand."

At the auditions, candidates will be taught some of the music from the show and will be required to sing. They will also be asked to read from the script and to improvise.

To sign up for the auditions, email the School of Performance on f.whately@kingston.ac.uk or send a letter to Frank Whately, School of Performance and Screen Studies, FASS, Kingston University, Penrhyn Road, Kingston KT1 2EE.

Audition sessions will be at 10am, 12.15pm and 2.30pm at the Rose Theatre.

The Ragged Child will run at the theatre from April 9 to 13, next year.

Robbers steal OAP party cash

Pensioners who had saved all year for their Christmas party are appealing for help after it was cancelled when £400 was stolen from its 83-year-old organiser

Kathleen Gaff has been holding bingo games at Chessington Parish Hall for more than 20 years, and used the money raised every year to hold an annual party for the pension-age players.

But last Wednesday, after she had withdrawn the money from Halifax in Victoria Road, Surbiton, she was robbed by two women in broad daylight. Police investigated the mugging but said there was not enough evidence to prosecute.

by LISA WILLIAMS
lisaw@london.newsquest.co.uk

Mrs Gaff's daughter, Sue Mclean, said: "I think it's absolutely appalling. It's bad enough stealing from people but when you steal from the elderly they don't understand it. It has taken my parents several days to get over the shock and they don't understand how people can be so horrible.

"The party has been cancelled as there is no way they can raise the money again."

Can you or your business help rescue the pensioners' Christmas party? Phone reporter Lisa Williams on 020 8330 9550.

Germans look for British menu

Culinary-minded Kingstonians are invited to take part in a cookery competition in Oldenburg, the German town twinned with the borough.

As part of its 900 year anniversary celebrations, Oldenburg is looking for recipes of what people eat in Kingston.

All local chefs, cooks and restaurateurs are invited to put forward a dish of their choice and apply to represent the borough in Germany next year. The recipe does not have to be traditionally British, it could have originated from anywhere in the world.

Kingston's winning dish and its creator will be invited to Oldenburg in September 2008 to go head to head with the winning entries from Oldenburg's partner towns.

To enter, provide a recipe with detailed cooking instructions for a dish that is served in the borough, and background information about the chef, including a CV and details of the restaurant.

Entries need to be sent to Brigitte Pfender, International partnerships co-ordinator, Guildhall, Kingston, by Friday, December 14. Phone 020 8547 5009 for more information.

Breach boy gets three weeks

A Kingston teenager has been sent to a young offenders' institution for three weeks for theft and breaching a community order.

Joshua Morris, 18, of Macdonald House, Cross Road, Kingston, was sentenced to a community order at Kingston Magistrates' Court on October 2, after taking a car without the owner's consent on August 31.

He was ordered to complete 60 hours of unpaid work but on December 3, Kingston magistrates heard how Morris had failed to make contact with the unpaid work team hours.

Christmas Merrie

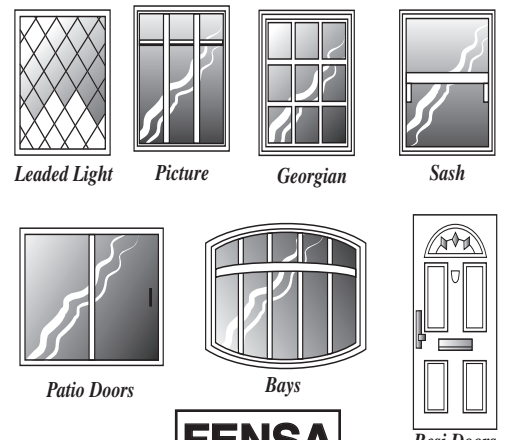

A roller skating Christmas pudding and the Christmas Fairy will be at Eden Walk in Kingston for a Christmas Merrie on Sunday, December 9.

Children can visit Father Christmas in his grotto or join in with craft workshops and face painting. Events are free and go on from 11am to 4pm. For more information contact 020 8547 5016.

Sell-off 'vital for church'

A Roman Catholic priest has berated councillors for opposing revised plans to sell off houses to fund an urgent £2.5million repair to St Raphael's Church.

The church in Portsmouth Road owns three properties in Maple Road, Surbiton, and wants to sell them to developers to build 21 one and two-bedroom flats.

The plans will be put before Kingston Council's development control committee on December 12, but councillors at Surbiton neighbourhood planning committee had their say on Wednesday last week.

by ALITA HOWE
ahowe@london.newsquest.co.uk

Councillor Barry O'Mahoney questioned why the houses needed to be developed when the church would gain the same money if the houses were to be sold intact as family units.

Councillor Nick Kilby said the character of the area would be lost if the houses were developed into flats. He said: "I can't imagine anyone wanting anything but you to succeed in your fundraising and we appreciate you want to optimise this but we have to optimise the character of the area."

For St Raphael's, Father Vincent Flynn said it still hoped planning permission would be granted at the development control meeting. "Councillors had clearly made up their mind before the meeting and ignored recommendations from planning officers and inspectors," he said.

"The church is deteriorating at an alarming rate. Why are local councillors so uninterested in supporting a community project?"

Paul Utley from developers PRC, told the committee that while a similar scheme was rejected in May 2006 because a legal agreement validating that funds would go to the church was missing, "robust" plans were now in place.

A new branch of Zizzi will be opening in Surbiton Plaza

Deadlinepix KT18026

Pizza chain for plaza

Pizza chain Zizzi is among the big names set to move into the next phase of the Surbiton Plaza development.

Phase two will bring about 30 new housing units to the area between Victoria Road and Cottage Grove, next to where the first part of Surbiton Plaza, designed by Conran and Partners, is being built.

Developer Wahid Samady, of CNM Estates, confirmed Zizzi would move into the Old Post Office building in Victoria Road.

He remains confident the development will be an asset to Surbiton.

The development includes space for retail units and a dental surgery.

Developers are also in negotiations with Churchill Medical Centre, which already runs several surgeries in the borough, to run a medical centre there.

One of the controversies surrounding the application was that CNM Estates had applied to demolish four buildings in the conservation area of Victoria Road to make way for the new units.

Memorial portrait of student

Join the debate
yourlocalguardian.co.uk

An anonymous artist is to paint a memorial portrait of Philip Poru, the Kingston University student shot dead in October.

The artist will present the university with the portrait of the first year media student to be hung as a memorial to him.

A spokesman for the university said: "Staff and students at the university's faculty of arts and social sciences, where Philip was a student, have been contributing to a collection that will be given to Philip's family.

"In addition, a memorial portrait of Philip has been commissioned and will be hung in the university when completed."

by LISA WILLIAMS
lisaw@london.newsquest.co.uk

The university added the artist was giving his time for free.

Philip had just started a joint honours degree in media and cultural studies at the university when he was shot dead in Plumstead on Sunday, October 14.

Olabode Amifowoshe, another Kingston University student, was also injured in the attack but he has now been released from hospital, and is believed to be under armed guard.

Seven weeks into the investigation, police still have not arrested anyone. They believe the attack was carried out by two black men.

When asked about why similar memorial arrangements had not been made for Evren Anil, the Kingston graduate also killed this year, a university spokeswoman said: "The university set up a special blog in memory of Evren Anil through which staff and students were able to pay tribute to the talented computer science graduate.

"Evren was due to be awarded a first class honours degree and a prize for most improved student. Both honours will now be bestowed posthumously."

The university has invited Evren's family to attend a ceremony in January, where they also plan to discuss further ways of honouring him in the future.

Life's so sweet for Wonka cast

Factory girls: Fern Goozee, Kirstyn Luton and Georgina Pollard KT18040

Golden tickets, Wonka bars and oompa loompas were in store for audiences at a production of Charlie and the Chocolate Factory by Coombe Girls' School last week.

More than 80 students spent two months rehearsing before staging performances on November 28 and 29.

The cast was led by year 11 pupil Kate Graves who played the eccentric factory owner Willy Wonka.

Elly Keevil, from Coombe Girls drama department, said: "It was so fantastic to see it all finally come together after all these weeks.

"The show was a multi-sensory extravaganza, with something for everyone."

Developer set to appeal over hotel plan rejection

Developer NHP has confirmed it will appeal against a decision to reject plans for a hotel and residential complex on the former power station site in Skerne Road., Kingston.

The plans were rejected by Kingston Council's planning and development control committee on October 31 as being too high and failing to provide an adequate affordable housing or mix of properties.

NHP confirmed hotel operator the Moran Hotel Group was still on board and it expected an appeal to be lodged early next year.

Sarlota's got the bottle

Our search for Kingston's Best Bartender is finally drawing to an end and the competition is fierce.

You only have until Friday morning, December 7, to send in your last-minute nominations and until 10am on December 17 to vote for your favourite. The person with the most votes will be proclaimed Kingston's Best Bartender in our December 20 issue.

This week's nominee is Sarlota Jurcikova who works at The Pottery in Park Road, Kingston. Sarlota, 27, is originally from Slovakia and has lived in the UK for nearly four years.

by HOLLYE BLADES

hblades@london.newsquest.co.uk

She said: "When I finished studying for a degree in economics in Slovakia, my mother, who is retired, asked me to come over to the UK to earn some money for the family. I didn't want to and told her I would only go for a week, and four years later I'm still here."

Sarlota has worked at The Pottery for two of the last four years, although she has not spent the entire time behind the bar.

"I started off just working on the floor," she said. "But then one of my colleagues left and I was trained to become a bartender. I really enjoy it, especially because the people I work with are great."

Unusually for a bartender, Sarlota, who lives in Sheen, does not like making cocktails and prefers instead to pull a simple pint. She said: "Making cocktails just takes so long, and that can be a nightmare when we're busy. I suppose that if I have to make them, my favourite is Pimms because it's the fastest!"

Outside of her fulltime job at The Pottery, Sarlota is a keen photographer and is contemplating taking a professional course in photography. "I really enjoy taking photos of my family and friends," she said. "I'd love to have a career as a photographer, but I also wouldn't mind working in an office, maybe in a management role to use my economics training."

Sarlota will be vying for the Kingston's Best title with Luke McConvey from the Willoughby Arms who is currently leading the poll. Also in the running are Lee Daniel, from the Boaters Inn in Lower Ham Road, Dominic Gates from the Rubicon Bar and Lounge in Surbiton; Tash King of the Albert Arms; Simon Alderson of the Druids Head; Dave George from Oceana; Demi George from the Works nightclub; Luigi Gaggi from the Kingston Tup; Kirsty Jones from the Albert; and Kyle Robinson from the Shy Horse in Chessington.

NEWS*brief*

DRINKING BLITZ: December marks the beginning of an anti-drink driving blitz by Kingston police, Kingston Council and Kingston Pubwatch as part of a London-wide initiative. The operation will include additional police patrols on the borough's roads and a powerful publicity campaign. Inspector Julian Hagley from Kingston police said: "During the 2006 festive period, four young people who had been drinking in Kingston lost their lives as a direct result of drink driving. Drivers have a responsibility for not only their own safety but that of their passengers and other road users."

PLAIN SAILING: A biology teacher from Tolworth was given one of the boating community's most prestigious awards by the Princess Royal. Eileen Wingrove was presented with the Royal Yachting Association's Community Award on November 22 at London's Church House for encouraging young sailors since starting a sailing club in Therfield School in Leatherhead in 1978.

CHOIR'S CAROLS: The Holy Cross Church Choir will sing carols by the Christmas tree in Trafalgar Square on Saturday, December 15. It will be the 25th year the choir from the church, in Douglas Avenue, in Motspur Park, has performed, raising over £6,500 for charity the Children's Society. They will be singing from 5pm to 6pm.

Red alert: Mark Calluby and Tatum Amankwatt were among the Kingston University students marking World Aids Day

Students Aids aware

Kingston University held a day of events to mark World Aids Day last week.

The student union released 200 red balloons on Friday, November 30, which raised £98.37, and sold red ribbons to raise awareness of HIV and Aids.

Volunteers handed out flyers and free condoms to students who were asked, along with staff, to wear red for the day. The Knights Park bar held a special night where general manager Mark Horne spun some red-themed tracks.

Schools feel strain

Extra English lessons for pupils from abroad are putting a "critical" strain on the budgets of some Kingston schools, which are tens of thousands of pounds out of pocket.

Clarissa Williams, head of Tolworth Girls' School, is one of the members of the National Association of Headteachers (Naht) which last week told Parliament that rising numbers of foreign pupils were testing schools' resources. Her own school is more than £36,000 out of pocket as a result of funding extra English language lessons with other schools reporting similar figures.

by LISA WILLIAMS

lisaw@london.newsquest.co.uk

Mrs Williams said: "These pupils are well motivated and it's lovely to have them, but they are entitled to have English tuition so they can perform well at school and it comes at a cost."

She said this year her school got about £4,000 from the Government for teaching English as a foreign language, but the actual cost of it per year was more than £40,000.

At Southborough School in Surbiton, language teachers and resources cost about £35,000 a year, only £4,423 of which comes from the Government.

About 20 per cent of pupils at Chessington Community College have English as a second language, according to the school's head David Kemp. Mr Kemp added that once a school succeeded in providing for a certain group the number can shoot up. He said: "When you can do it well you reach a critical point when numbers of certain groups start to snowball."

The Naht will report its views to Parliament as part of an inquiry into the effects of immigration.

NEWSbrief

GARDEN GRABBING: A campaign has been launched in Kingston against so-called "garden grabbing", the practice of building new homes in back gardens.

The Save Our Back garden campaign is being led by Councillor Mary Clark, and seeks to reduce the amount of garden space taken away by knocking down houses and building new buildings on the green space.

OAP PARTY: The Grafton Club in New Malden hosts its 40th annual OAP Christmas dinner on December 12 at 1pm. Organised with Help the Aged, some 40 pensioners will be catered for at the club in Grafton Road. Pupils from Christ Church Junior School in Elm Road will be singing carols to entertain the guests.

WATER WORRY: The Consumer Council for Water is calling for the water regulator Ofwat to ensure that in Thames Water's forthcoming price review for 2010-15, that customer service gets a greater priority over corporate profit. Last week, Thames Water unveiled a 50 per cent rise in profits.

Praise for quick-thinking hero Nick's two rescues

by HARRY MILLER
drankin@london.newsquest.co.uk

While some people his age battle it out on the streets with guns and knives, 19-year-old Nick Mustoe has been hailed a hero.

Paul Whitehead, 30, owner of the Budget Print shop in St Andrews Road where Nick works, said he had saved two lives in the past few months.

In September, while serving a customer, he noticed her pram careering dangerously along the middle of St Andrews Road.

He had a split second to react. Nick, of Tolworth Rise North, Tolworth, said: "I didn't really think at all.

"I just leapt over the counter and bolted for the pram."

Co-worker Luke Heather, 18, from Long Ditton said: "I saw him dash out of the shop like a rat down a drainpipe and grab a speeding buggy seconds before it would have collided with a moving car. He's a true hero."

The second incident occured on November 22, while Nick was travelling home.

He saw a man swaying across the pavement in Princes Avenue, who then fell, clutching his chest.

Luckily for the man, Nick called an ambulance and waited with him until it arrived.

Nick said: "I thought about driving on but I just couldn't. He looked lagged [drunk] but as I reversed I saw him holding his chest and reaching in the air.

"I called an ambulance and stayed until it arrived."

Mr Whitehead said: "Nick is a little rough around the edges but he's got a good heart, he really deserves some kind of award. Not a lot of people would bother any more."

Kind heart: His boss thinks Nick Mustoe deserves an award

Maternity services score well

A Healthcare Commission report into maternity services has rated Kingston Hospital as above average for antenatal classes and the cleanliness of its bathroom facilities.

The hospital, where more than 5,000 babies were delivered last year, was also rated highly for the provision of Down's syndrome screening.

But it was marked down for the quality of food given to new mothers and for inconsistency in advice on breast feeding.

When new mothers were asked if they were given active encouragement to breast feed, as is recommended by the Government, 25 per cent said they had not.

Similarly, only 27 per cent of mothers surveyed said they had received consistent advice about feeding the baby.

A spokeswoman for Kingston Hospital said this problem had been addressed.

She said: "The trust is applying for a Baby Friendly status.

"This means that the trust would be recognised as promoting breast feeding for new mums as a standard."

According to the hospital, the quality of food offered to patients had increased since a new catering contract started in August.

The spokeswoman said: "Following this change over, patient satisfaction has been much higher."

Councillor holds surgery

Norbiton councillor Steve Mama is holding an advice surgery on Saturday December 8 between 10.30am and 12.30pm at the Labour Party Offices at 160 London Road in Kingston.

The advisory session is open to all residents, who should try to bring any background papers or correspondence on the matter concerning them.

The session is held on a strictly confidential basis and no appointment is necessary.

Finishing touches on hi-tech student digs

by ALITA HOWE
ahowe@london.newsquest.co.uk

Cutting-edge design including Scandinavian glazing, Italian porcelain rainscreen cladding and white acrylic rendering will be part of a new student accommodation for Kingston.

The new building at the junction of Wood Street and Vicarage Road held a topping-out ceremony last week to celebrate the completion of structural work.

Keyway Estates, a subsidiary of NHP Leisure Developments, has been in charge of the development, which will provide flats and apartments to 225 students as well as offer shops and restaurants. Guest of honour at the ceremony, held on November 29, was Councillor Vicki Harris, chairman of Kingston Council's development control committee.

Contractors Ardmore Construction will hand over the project in mid-June 2008 and show apartments will be ready in January.

Mike Spenser-Morris, of NHP, said: "I am very proud of the work we are doing in Kingston – regenerating a long derelict site into a beacon for the local area. Students are an important part of Kingston's community and this building will not only provide them with good accommodation for generations to come, it will also positively add to the fabric of Kingston town centre."

"How I Transformed My Kitchen Without Having to Buy a New One"

"My kitchen was over 10 years old and looked tatty. I desperately needed a new kitchen but didn't want the cost or upheaval. I had heard good reports of Dream Doors, who specialise in kitchen facelifts, so I decided to give them a try. What an amazing transformation!

As well as fitting brand new doors and worktops, everything was colour co-ordinated and I even gained additional cupboard space. My kitchen has been transformed in just over a day and I saved 60% of the cost of a new one!

I was under no obligation from the initial visit, and the advice and estimate I received were free of charge. There was no mess, no fuss, just plenty of friendly, helpful advice and I didn't need to pay the balance until I was completely satisfied!

Crowds turn out for big switch-on

One for Facebook: Sophie Obearg gets into the Christmas spirit at Surbiton station

Surbiton station forecourt came alive with carol singers and festive music from Maple Infants' School last Thursday.

Families enjoyed fairground rides as Santa made his way up Victoria Road in his sleigh to turn on the lights outside the station.

Kingston Rotary Club also held a ceremony to switch on its Christmas tree lights on Clarence Street on November 30.

Mayor of Kingston Councillor Shiraz Mirza helped flick the switch and the crowds were entertained by carols from pupils of Kingston Grammar School.

Simply the best: General manager Steve Fleury and assistant general manager Dan Corry from Oceana, deputy mayor of Kingston Councillor Bart Ricketts and Declan McCullough, deputy manager of the Druid's Head

Deadlinepix KT17963

Town's nightspots are voted best bar none

by LISA WILLIAMS

lisaw@london.newsquest.co.uk

Oceana and the Druid's Head shared the honours for best club and best nightclub at the inaugural Best Bar None awards.

The scheme was launched by the Safer Kingston Partnership in July to set a benchmark for safety standards among bar owners in Kingston. Entrants were assessed on eight strict standards including staff training, fire safety and crime prevention and each establishment which reached the required standard was awarded a plaque which they can display to the public.

Steve Fleury, manager of Oceana – the winner of Best Club – said: "These awards have drawn a line in the sand to say 'this is how we want to do things'. It's great that we have won but the scheme is about everyone in Kingston working together to make it a safe night time town."

Assistant manager of the Druid's Head Simon Alderson said: "It's a privilege to win. We put a lot of effort into keeping everything at a high standard and there's lots of work that goes on behind the scenes. It's nice to be recognised."

Entrants were judged by a panel which included Kingston Council chief executive Bruce MacDonald, deputy leader of the council Councillor Barry O'Mahoney and your local Guardian editor Sean Duggan, as well as the chairman of the Safer Kingston Partnership.

Speaking about judging the awards, Mr Duggan said: "It was an education to see what nightclubs and pubs in Kingston are doing to ensure customers are safe."

Royal Kingston

Starting school in the Royal Borough of Kingston upon Thames

Starting school is an important step in every child's life. For children born on or between 1 September 2003 and 31 August 2004 their first steps into school life will begin in September 2008.

The Royal Borough of Kingston upon Thames is very proud of the achievements of all its schools and knows how important it is for parents to understand the admissions process, so they can make informed decisions about the schools to which they apply.

If you have a child who is due to start school in September 2008 you may contact any Kingston school for information. They will be able to provide you with:

- Details of the individual school
- The Council's booklet on primary school admissions
- An application form

You will need to complete just one form (the Common Application Form) on which you list up to three Kingston schools, in order of your preference. We will offer you the highest preference school your child qualifies for according to the published admissions criteria.

You can also apply online which is easy to use and you will be guided through each step. For more information visit Kingston Council's Website www.kingston.gov.uk/school_admissions.

Singing pupils join cancer appeal day

Schoolchildren are getting into the real spirit of Christmas by helping the Marie Curie Cancer Care with its annual Lights to Remember Appeal.

The charity's "tree of remembrance" is standing tall in Marketplace and children at St John the Baptist C of E Primary School in Hampton Wick are brushing up on their Christmas carols, ready to perform at the Marie Curie Lights to Remember ceremony at 5pm on Saturday, December 15 at All Saints' Church.

The appeal takes place every year and is an opportunity for local people and families to come together and remember loved ones and show their support for the work of the Marie Curie nurses.

by HOLLYE BLADES

hblades@london.newsquest.co.uk

Headteacher Mrs Sawyer said: "The children are really excited about being involved in this worthwhile appeal and we hope to encourage more people to come along to the ceremony and celebrate the lives of those who are absent this Christmas."

The appeal ends with the ceremony at All Saints' Church with readings and festive songs, followed by the switching on of the Tree of Remembrance by actress Amanda Burton.

All the money raised will go towards helping Marie Curie Cancer Care nurses care for terminally-ill cancer patients in their own homes.

Kingston's Euro-MP Robert Evans wants the ban lifted on television advertising of condoms when young people might be watching.

Fighting Aids

Staff at the Wolverton Centre, Kingston Hospital's sexual health clinic, used World Aids Day to raise awareness about HIV and Aids. A spokesman said that there has been a 50 per cent increase in heterosexual diagnosis since 2003.

She said: "Ignorance fuels the spread of a preventable disease and World Aids Day is an opportunity for people to fight against HIV and Aids."

The clinic routinely offers HIV testing as part of its sexual health screening and provides test results by text message.

Wishing us all a beery Christmas

The German Market returned to Kingston this Christmas, with stalls selling a range of traditional German gifts, from wooden toys to crystals. REBECCA EVANS spoke to stall worker Miriam Baumeister

Fröhliche Weihnachten! Miriam Baumeister in the German market Deadlinepix KT18158

What do you sell at your stall?

I work at the beer stall where we sell different types of German beer and lager as well as mulled wine.

I don't actually like beer which is probably why they let me work here.

Germans and the English definitely have a lot in common in that they do like a drink.

How is Christmas in England different from Christmas in Germany?

In Germany we celebrate Christmas Eve more than Christmas Day, and I prefer the German way. We can really enjoy the evening and we put out candles which are very pretty.

What is the atmosphere like at the market?

It is such a great community atmosphere here.

I worked here last year and the people are the reason I came back again. It's like reuniting with your family.

We all know each other and everyone is your friend.

It's great because we spend so much time together during the day and even spend our evenings together.

The guys on the fruit and veg stalls are great as well – they sometimes even give me free food!

What has the reaction been to the market by the customers?

The customers are great. Regular customers will often stay for hours drinking and having a chat.

I don't know how they do it in this cold weather.

When I first came to England five years ago, the approach to Germans and Germany was quite negative.

People only seemed to know Germany from World War II documentaries.

But since the World Cup in Germany, people have been a lot friendlier.

I think people got to know a bit more about modern Germany and we're pretty nice people really!

Cancel the office mistletoe

A Kingston based solicitors is urging companies to brush up on their knowledge of sex-discrimination as the office Christmas party season gets under way.

Howell-Jones RHW in Surbiton Road said sex discrimination cases had doubled from 14,250 in 2005/6 to 28,153 in 2006/7 according to research from the Employment Tribunals Service.

Phillip Henson, employment law specialist at the firm, said more than 30,000 employees won cases against their employers last year, averaging £10,000 per payout.

"In other words, companies lost nearly £300million through sex discrimination last year," he said. "With Christmas parties on the horizon, employers should consider taking down the mistletoe and training their staff about acceptable behaviour."

Facade firm has got some front

New Malden-based facade specialists James & Taylor has designed a new frontage for the Stephen Lawrence Centre, an educational facility and community hub in Deptford.

The company, based in Montem Road, worked with architects Adjaye Associates and used light-reflecting aluminium, to create the feeling of light and movement on the building.

John Champion, technical director at James & Taylor, said: "This is a landmark building, not least because it will become a vital focus for young people with aspirations to design wonderful buildings themselves one day."

The contract is the latest success for the firm which created a facade for the refurbished New York's New Museum of Contemporary Art, which opened on December 1.

Radio Jackie up for re-licensing

The licence for Surbiton-based Radio Jackie will be re-advertised by Ofcom in January 2008.

Pre-advertisement, where Ofcom invites declarations of intent to apply, will start in December.

If no declarations are received other than from the current licence holder, Ofcom can proceed with a fast-track re-licensing to the current licensee.

Successful bidders will be granted a new licence for a five-year period or with an expiry date of December 31 2015, whichever is longer.

Online venture makes for personal greetings

by ALITA HOWE

ahowe@london.newsquest.co.uk

Jeannette Fuller and Sarah Dennis are busy. Between them they have five children, two husbands and successful careers in marketing, but nevertheless they have taken the plunge and started an innovative personalised stationery business.

Ta-daa! is a web-based company allowing users to create illustrations of family, friends and pets on a virtual drawing board which can then be applied to cards, stickers and address labels.

Jeannette, 38, from Kingston, and Sarah, 39, from Esher, launched Ta-daa! on November 2 following 10 months of planning.

After Sarah was sent a personalised address label from a friend in America, the pair realised there was a gap in the UK market and conducted rigorous market research before interviewing design companies to build the illustration software and setting up a website over the summer.

They used the American labels as the basis of their research and assessed competitors, evaluated how much print runs would cost and issued questionnaires asking people for feedback on pricing and design. Postcards start at 47p and a pack of 12 personalised Christmas cards costs £13.99.

Ta-daa! Jeanette Fuller and Sarah Dennis Deadlinepix EL17901

Jeanette said: "The biggest learning curve was that we had no technical expertise – we had no idea of the technical barriers. We interviewed 10 or 15 companies and gave them a brief – it had to be high quality, fun, with a good end-product."

The website allows people to personalise blank face or animal templates by choosing hairstyles, eye colour and accessories and the fledgling site already has 300,000 combinations.

Jeanette and Sarah used savings to fund the business to avoid substantial borrowing.

"There is no way we could have afforded it on our own – we've shared the risk, "Sarah said. "It is hugely stressful starting your own business – just the sheer volume of everything you've got to do. We became addicted to coffee and before we launched we were working weekends, evenings and using any spare time."

Jeanette and Sarah are still juggling marketing consultancy work with growing the business but say orders are rolling in and feedback on the site has been very positive.

"It is so interactive and we really want to produce an experience for people from the site right up until they open the box," they said.

Jeannette and Sarah say their main focus until Christmas is to perfect the operational side of the business, but they have ambitious plans for 2008 including working with the National Autistic Society again – they supported the charity with a donation from their Christmas cards as Sarah's son Riley has Asperger syndrome. They also want to expand their product range and work with corporate clients a nd schools. Visit ta-daa.co.uk for information.

❑ More than six million trees were bought last Christmas in the UK, most of which were thrown out after December, creating over 9,000 tonnes of additional rubbish.

So if you're buying a real Christmas tree, make sure it has roots so it can grow again. If it can't grow again try and take it to a recycling centre where it will be chipped and turned into nutritious compost.

the big picture

❑ In response to the Government's consultation Adding Capacity at Heathrow Airport which covers a range of different proposals for the future development of the airport including a third runway and a sixth terminal, the Mayor of London, Ken Livingstone, said: "I am firmly opposed to this expansion of Heathrow Airport as it runs contrary to all the growing evidence we now have on the impact of aviation on climate change.

"Half of the population never fly at all from one year to the next, and of course it is vital to maintain business and long haul air travel, but a small proportion of people are taking ever more short haul leisure flights."

Breakfast is step in right direction

In the saddle: Mark Sutton, finance director of Newsquest South London, takes a spin on the virtual reality bike

by HEATHER DARLINGTON

hdarlington@london.newsquest.co.uk

Staff from this newspaper tucked into a free breakfast last month as part of the company's drive to create a workplace travel plan.

Laid on by Transport for London (TfL) and Smarter Travel Sutton at our offices in North Cheam the event was aimed at getting staff to consider how they get to and from work – and if they could do it in a more sustainable way.

It is part of a wider initiative this year within Newsquest South London to reduce our environmental impact.

This has seen the establishment of a green group and has led to a significant reduction in our environmental footprint via a wide range of measures.

These range from a dramatic increase in paper and cardboard recycling to a new cycle rack, from rewiring our offices to reduce electricity consumption to issuing glasses to all staff to cut down on the use of plastic cups.

Regional operations manager, Malcolm Sealby, who heads the company green team said: "I am absolutely delighted by the level of support shown by staff from all departments – we are making excellent progress.

"Working with Tfl and Smarter Travel Sutton we hope to be able to reduce traffic congestion and CO_2 emissions from staff transport."

At last month's event staff were able to have a blood pressure check, learn their body mass index measurement, enjoy a mini stress-busting massage, or take a spin on a virtual reality bike.

Charles Tucker, workplace travel planning relationship manager for TfL said it was a great success.

"We are delighted Newsquest was so enthusiastic about developing a workplace travel plan.

"The breakfast event was a huge success with more than 100 staff attending to find out more about how we can work together to reduce congestion, help tackle climate change and develop a healthier and happier workplace."

Reporter Jane Bruccoleri agreed: "Last week's breakfast was a great event – not simply because of the free food but because it was a real eye-opener to how people in my office actually travel to work." she said.

"I was quite surprised to find some people who live less than a mile away still drive. Personally I drive approximately 10 miles a day.

"However while I don't believe I will give up my car, I am eager to car share with those living close to me and would consider cycling in the summer.

"And thanks to the free pedometer, I have also discovered I need to walk more often which I've already started to do. Thank you Sutton, you are A1."

eco news

❑ Shoppers will have the chance to buy some eco-friendly goods for Christmas this week when The Big Green Christmas Market visits North End, Croydon from Thursday through to Sunday.

More than 40 stalls will feature a wide range of items from eco-shoes to wind up radios, and Croydon Council will have a stall on Thursday and Friday featuring recycling and energy efficient ideas, including how to best use your compost bin.

They will also be running a drop-in recycled craft activities stall for children.

The big green market has already visited Croydon once this year in October, and more information can be found at biggreenmarket.co.uk or by emailing jane@thebiggreenmarket.co.uk

❑ It is sometimes a little easy to overindulge during the festive season so why not fight the calories by joining the Women on Wheels for a healthy bike ride under the leadership of expert cycle trainers.

Meet other ladies who are interested in getting fit and staying active by getting back in the bike saddle.

The free social bike ride takes place on the last Sunday of every month. The next ride is on Sunday, December 30.

Meet at 10am on Sunday mornings outside Borders bookshop, Market Place, Kingston. Telephone 020 8547 5876 for more information.

Carry on creating eco-friendly ideas

Students from an Esher College Young Enterprise group has used green ideals to become a business success.

IO Productions, made up of 15 students, produced 500 eco-friendly canvas bags with artwork specially designed for the Toy Centre at New Malden Children's Centre.

The company's managing director, student Chris McLaughlin, said: "We started with the idea because there's a lot of people in our college who have big A3 sketch books and find them hard to carry around. We saw that supermarkets were doing their eco-friendly canvas bags so we decided to do our own version."

Terri Easty, of the Children's Centre, said: "The level of commitment and the professional approach of the team as a whole is an outstanding tribute to themselves and Esher College."

The company is hoping to achieve further success by re-investing the money from this project into a babysitting book.

This should be available on the market at the beginning of 2008.

Don't ignore us on council homes

We all agree with Councillor Griffin in last week's letters page that the condition of many of the council houses leaves much to be desired and that this is the result of years of neglect.

The more experienced among us do not share her confidence that housing associations will deliver the shortfall and there will be no sympathetic councillor to harry the landlord if repairs are not forthcoming or not up to scratch. Furthermore, their services come with a considerable price tag.

I would remind her that, in a 60 per cent turnout last time, the tenants voted decisively against a stock transfer and that the only dissenting vote in the council chamber was Councillor Steve Mama, the only one, apparently, who had any idea of the strength of public feeling on the matter. Democracy is the name of the game. Representatives are elected to represent the electorate.

Local authorities are duty bound to house the homeless. Housing associations are not obliged to house tenants they regard as bad risks. In some areas they do not even accept applications from people on housing benefits. Furthermore, they will cherry-pick the most valuable properties, leaving the local authority with the most dilapidated housing, costing the most to repair and removing the leavening effect of better properties and a more stable tenant base.

Once the properties are sold they cannot be brought back into public ownership, unless the housing association goes into receivership, in which case the tax-payers will be putting their hands in their pocket again or, of course, they could equally well sell on the stock to property developers.

Rail passengers face new year pain

Rail users are bracing for above-inflation fare rises expected to be introduced in January.

Peak time commuters are the ones hard done by here. We get on trains that are packed, meaning the train company is probably making a nice profit. However, we then subsidise almost empty trains that run during the day. There is talk that the tax payer doesn't want to (or shouldn't be) subsidising public transport. Of course, the tax payers of London subsidise the rest of the UK to the tune of billions, but clearly that is a different matter. If the taxes paid by people living in and around London went to those areas, we'd be riding in trains made of gold.

Police fight blue badge crime

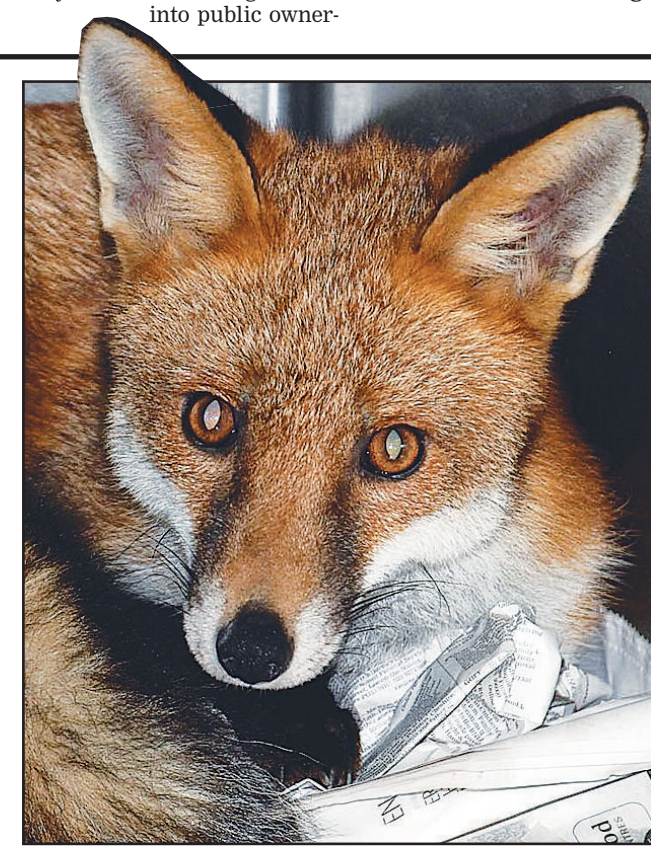

Almost half the 55 blue badges for disabled parking checked by police during a clampdown were found to be either forgeries or in the wrong hands.

They should do something about Fassett Road near Kingston University, they must have the highest number of "disabled" 19-25 year olds in the country. It's taken for granted that a blue badge equals free parking. As someone with a disabled relative I find it disgusting.

Readers get claws into the urban fox 'hunter'

Editor's note: while Dr Tinker's escapades were clearly fictional, we felt that they were so well-written that they merited inclusion under the headline 'Foxy Fantasy'. Not everyone was amused.

The urban fox: Clearly views differ on whether they should be hunted Deadlinepix SU17377

I would like to say to Dr Kenneth Tinker that shooting urban foxes by using a gun with a group of adolescent boys is no way to keep these youngsters out of trouble.

I understand that foxes can be a problem in urban areas. However, no one has a right to take a gun to them and then skin and eat them. What example has this taught these youngsters?

I was sickened by this and disappointed that the Surrey Comet printed this information in great detail.

Working in child and adolescent mental health, I believe this act of animal cruelty has only confirmed to this group of youngsters that they can commit an act of animal cruelty and get away with it.

NAME SUPPLIED

Re: the letter printed on November 28, Foxy Fantasy; whilst I understand that Dr Kenneth Tinker's letter was written in jest (I hope), do you not think that it is irresponsible of you and him to promote teenagers hunting with guns, when gun crime is at crisis point?

Almost every week there is a story in the papers about a young person losing their life to the so-called gun culture, including your paper this week which carried an item about a Kingston University student being murdered with a gun.

Also, what have the poor old foxes ever done to Dr Tinker to make him so trigger happy? I think Dr Tinker needs to take a reality check.

LYNN PEARCE
via email

When I read Dr Kenneth Tinker's encomium to urban fox-hunting, I guessed that the events described in the letter were fictitious, designed to illustrate a point and, perhaps, to outrage a certain type of liberal and animal lover.

I agreed with the spirit of the letter. What the good Doctor Tinker failed to mention was that his gang of delinquent fox hunters need instruction in the place and meaning of hunting in country life; that the act of hunting a fox in a collegiate manner is a mix of the exigencies of stewardship and the experience of membership of something greater than themselves.

Dr Tinker is correct that boys need moral instruction. Done the right way, hunting could be the answer. As for those who castigated Dr Tinker, do they write letters to the paper condemning the over-consumption of cheaply produced meat – a real cause of cruelty to animals?

HORSA AND BELINDA

I was interested to hear Dr Tinker's recollection of his epic adventure to hunt his foxy foe with the local bicycle brigade.

Let us hope that he got fully prepared for your mission – were his bicycle helmets suitably buffed and shiny? Did he ensure that the mechanism of his bicycle bell was suitably primed and "ringy" for the occasion?

And did he round up the local terrier, "Spot", to ensure the right sort of atmosphere for the little tinkers?

K DUFFEY

I think Kenneth Tinker should do one of the following; seek urgent medical help, get a hobby, get a life, or get out more,

Save this unique gem from destruction

St Raphael's Church on the Portsmouth Road is a unique gem of Victorian Architecture. Its Italianate-Early Renaissance style proudly welcomes visitors to Kingston and equally boasts of Royal weddings as well as the spiritual comfort it offers to thousands of people every year. You would think that everyone would welcome its restoration. Most people do. I receive donations from Muslims, Hindus, Anglicans, even atheists.

But no sooner had the parish launched a £2.5 million campaign when one local councillor set out to stop it. Part of our plan is to sell the old derelict presbytery on Maple Road with planning permission and invest all of the money in St Raphael's. We intend to build a new community centre with amenities for the disabled, comfortable facilities for the elderly and a safe and secure environment for parents and children, young people and those, like me, who want to be young. Everyone can see the benefit except one man, Councillor Barry O'Mahony, who, yet again last Wednesday, stood up at the Surbiton Sub-Committee meeting and opposed the project on the grounds that my two dilapidated houses were worth more in their current state than if the site was developed for flats. The Lib Dems is a great party but, guys, don't put dear old Barry in charge of finance or property.

Tip restrictions are great

Re: Tip ban. I think that Kingston Council should be congratulated in imposing the alterations and restrictions for users of the Villiers Road Tip. Whilst appreciating that some residents on the borough borders may prefer going elsewhere and complain that the controls may stop their acceptance there, the restrictions now exercised at the tip ensures that genuine residents hopefully do not have to spend half-an-hour or more queuing up from the main road to dispose of their recycling.

Kingston Council explained the logic of making these controls by stating the huge sum of money that was needed to dispose of the waste contributed by non-residents. The layout also now ensures that vehicles over a certain size have to proceed via the weighing facility. If efforts like these help to keep or reduce our council tax then they should be encouraged. Subsequent visits to the tip have shown dramatic benefit, improvements and speed of in and out. Long may it remain so.

Tragic: Robert Webb with his sister Laura, who was killed in the 7/7 bombings

Brother of 7/7 victim writes Santa booklet

by ALITA HOWE
ahowe@london.newsquest.co.uk

A man whose sister died in the July 7 London bombings has compiled a booklet in aid of the Kingston church where she was christened.

Laura Webb was a 29-year-old personal assistant working in Paddington when she was killed in the Edgware Road bomb in 2005. Laura's parents George and Hazel still live in Kingston Vale and her brother Robert, 40, who now lives in Cardiff, wrote the booklet So, Who is Father Christmas?, about the origins of Father Christmas, to raise funds for a children's play area at the family church, St John the Baptist, in Robin Hood Lane.

Mr Webb started researching the book after completing a history degree. He said: "I had compiled the research over the years but Laura dying made me think about ways in which I could do something positive in her memory.

"St John's has been an important part of the life of our family for over 30 years – Laura was christened there and we held the funeral at the church. The church – both the people and the building – were a great source of support and comfort when my sister was killed. So I wanted to give something back in some way."

Copies of the booklet are available from St John the Baptist Church, Robin Hood Lane. Email stjohns@inthevale.org.uk or call 020 8546 4079 for more information.

Return of the Larrikin

MUSIC: The Pan I Am, The Lyric,

Will Gore

Edward Larrikin is twenty minutes late for our interview. But I'll let him off. He is, after all, a very happy man.

"I've just met my hero, Mike Scott from the Waterboys," he tells me breathlessly.

This revelation may come as a surprise if you fell for the press swirl that surrounded his former band, Larrikin Love, when their first (and only) album, The Freedom Spark, was released in 2006.

Larrikin Love's raucous live shows, coupled with an ear for a sharp lyric and a memorable melody, led an over-excited music press to lump them in with the likes of Razorlight and the Libertines.

But the band's multi-instrumentation, coupled to folk and literary influences suggested there was more to Larrikin Love – and in particular their leader Edward Larrikin – than the NME would have you believe.

With this in mind, Larrikin's devotion to the Waterboys makes complete sense. As does his decision to burst back onto the music scene by curating the Blue Flowers night at the Lyric Theatre on Sunday.

The night will see the popular indie club, usually based in a Chiswick pub, spread its wings with an extravaganza of poetry, music and film, culminating in a debut gig from Larrikin's new band, the Pan I Am.

"My partner Alice and I were approached to curate the night and we were keen to turn things on their head by utilising the whole venue," says Edward.

"Not enough people, particularly in music, are doing enough to put on a show. With the Blue Flowers night we wanted to take advantage of the space and really make the most of it."

The Pan I Am will perform in the Lyric's main house and there will also be poetry recitals from Polar Bear, Jock Scot and current indie darling Patrick Wolf.

The show will begin at 7.30pm, but when the doors open at 6.30pm, the theatre foyer will be hosting a range of stalls and film projections.

It is often easy for young men to affect an interest in literature for the benefit of a carefully groomed image. But as far as Edward is concerned, you get the sense poetry is something he has a genuine passion for.

Water boy: Ed Larrikin – looking rather Jagger-esque here – is back as The Pan I Am

After Larrikin Love's premature demise, the Blue Flowers night seems to be giving him a chance to reposition himself as an artist

"I ended up being somewhere I didn't want to be," he explains. "Larrikin Love were bunched in with some kind of bs south-west london, NME scene. We were even in the Sun, and that's just wrong.

"I'm sure a lot of Larrikin Love fans will be interested in the Blue Flowers and the Pan I Am, and that is great. Our fans were very clued up, but to be honest I'm doing it more for myself now."

New Slang selector

Thanks to the New Slang gang, 2007 has been an indie year to remember at the Works, writes Nancy Groves.

And returning this week are Vincent Vincent and the Villains. But call it Christmas or call it laziness – they've left the programme for December 27's final installment down to you.

Future Slang: Vincent Vincent and the Villains

Gig-goers can vote now from a shortlist on the Banquet Records website and there's even a virtual iPod to help you choose.

"We're always getting people asking to play and getting told which bands we should have booked so it's about time we listened," explain the Banquet team. "We've whittled it down to a top ten and it's now open to the public to decide."

As well as a spot on the hallowed Works stage, the two winning bands will also get their songs released on a split 7" New Slang single, with a nationwide shop release planned for 2008. So come on pop-pickers. Do your work.

See banquetrecords.com for more details. Voting ends midnight, Saturday, December 15.

This week in Kingston

Early Christmas...

December is upon us and so are the festive events. Up first, Kingston Early Music Ensemble with a cosy evening of Advent cantatas by Bach, Telemann et al in the magical Lovkyn Chapel. Thursday.

Sleigh bells ring...

They say Christmas has gone to the dogs, but make that horses, as Sandown Race Course hosts a Tingle Creek extravaganza over two days. Featuring a horse and sleigh, carols from local schools, and very special guests Father Christmas, The Snowman and Pingu. The penguin's back. Fri/Sat.

Revue of the year...

Riverhouse Arts Centre host the latest show from Muse and Music theatre company. Christmas in an Hour is just that – a sparkling family revue featuring seasonal poetry and song. Infinitely preferable to X Factor. Same difference? I don't think so. Sunday.

Bah humbug...

Yet to feel festive? You'll be at home at Outside the Box Comedy next week. Scrooge-approved headliner Andrew Lawrence was a 2007 if.comedy award nominee at Edinburgh. But go to andrewlawrencecomedy.co.uk and you'll find a skeleton – the Ghost of Christmas Past, perhaps? Monday.

Living legend...

His new book is the thinking person's stocking filler, but why not hear John Pilger in person? The journalist and campaigner visits Kingston University next week to give a lecture on Journalism, Power and Propaganda. Tuesday.

Noel (and Liam)...

It's Christmas unplugged at the Ram Jam Club next Tuesday, as Kingston College students go acoustic for Yule. Listen out for solos, bands and maybe a cameo from a teacher. Oasis covers, anyone? "It could be mayhem," warn organisers, "but quality mayhem." Tuesday.

TTC's new secret is out

THEATRE: The Secret Garden, Hampton Hill Playhouse

Nancy Groves

Family entertainment: The cast of children's classic the Secret Garden at Hampton Hill Playhouse

Everyone likes a bit of British at their annual Christmas show. And, as children's classics go, they don't get more homegrown than the Secret Garden.

Francis Hodgson Burnett's book tells the story of 10-year-old orphan, Mary Lennox, sent from Empire-era India to live with her uncle in a manor on the Yorkshire moors. Cue whistling winds, cold drafts and much slamming of heavy oak doors.

Only, there is a distinctly American touch to Teddington Theatre Club's new production at the Hampton Hill Playhouse, as TTC director Michelle Hood explains.

"Hodgson-Burnett has been adopted by the Americans as their own. When her father's business went bust in Manchester, the whole family moved to Tennessee. American audiences still love her books."

A musical take on the book, the adaptation is the work of composer Lucy Simon (sister of Carly) and Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright Marsha Norman. It premiered on Broadway in 1991 and was revived in London by the RSC in a jazzed-up version.

But when Hood approached TTC's play selection committee last year, it was with the original American version.

"It is truer to the novel," she says. "You have to remember that Mary Lennox is not a very nice child. In fact, she is rather horrible. But she is lonely and I think children relate to that.

"Mary has been ignored all her life. But her arrival in Yorkshire, and the discovery of the garden, bring salvation to the family."

Hood, who has 25 years' experience as a professional actress and singer, has also played up the story's Eastern connection. Drawing on Hindu ideas of reincarnation, the puppet robin who first guides Mary to the garden is operated by the actress who earlier on plays her "aya" (maid).

And the colour that permeates the Indian flashbacks returns only when the flowers in the garden begin to bloom.

This will not be the first book adaptation that Hood has worked on at TTC. She has also directed three of the past four Christmas shows, including the Wizard of Oz and the Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe.

The Secret Garden, Hampton Hill Playhouse, 90 High Street, Hampton Hill, December 8-15, 7.45pm, matinées Sat 8, 2.30pm, Sun 9, 2pm, Sat 15, 4pm, £10/£6, 0845 838 7529, ttc-secretgarden.co.uk.

Spend penny on grads

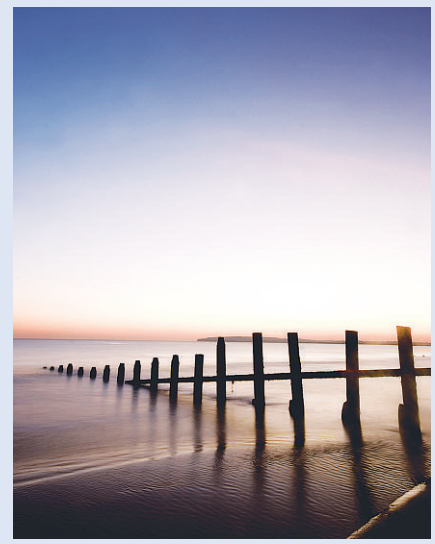

Photography is both a fine art and a fierce business, as three mature students at Kingston College have discovered, writes Nancy Groves.

Iain Clarke, 37, Ian McGraw, 37, and Simon Batt, 40, completed Kingston's HND Photography course this year. And their final assignment? Arranging an exhibition at the Penny School Gallery to showcase their work.

Batt, Clarke and McGraw's pieces include travel, fashion and portraiture, landscape and architecture, and even the odd wedding snap.

Included in McGraw's section are two contrasting portraits of Lord Archer, captured at a charity auction at Claridges last month which the shamed peer hosted.

Taking care at Christmas

Going by car to a party over the Christmas period? Take a few precautions. Christmas is a time of parties and social engagements. It's also a time which could have serious implications for drivers

If you're the designated driver on nights out, ensure that you are under the safe driving limit and preferably abstain from alcohol altogether. If you're heading off to a party, take soft drinks with you in case your hosts have overlooked this, or opt for soft drinks or non-alcoholic beers and wines if you're out and about.

If you were lucky enough to be chauffeured or used taxis, then think twice before you get into your car next morning. As a general rule it takes your body one hour to eliminate one unit of alcohol, yet many overlook this fact.

The road safety charity 'Brake' reckons that after a heavy night's drinking, one-in-six drivers are still prepared to put themselves and others in danger by getting behind the wheel the following morning.

Supporting these findings, Department for Transport statistics show that most failed breath tests happened between the hours of 7am and 9am.

Drink driving is not the only risk the morning after the night before: chances are if you had a late night, you're going to be tired.

Don't risk driving: drivers who fall asleep at the wheel cause seven deaths every week. If you absolutely have to drive that day, make sure you stop at regular intervals.

Remember the only way to combat tiredness is to follow the government's advice, which is to stop, have a caffeinated or energy drink and take a brief nap.

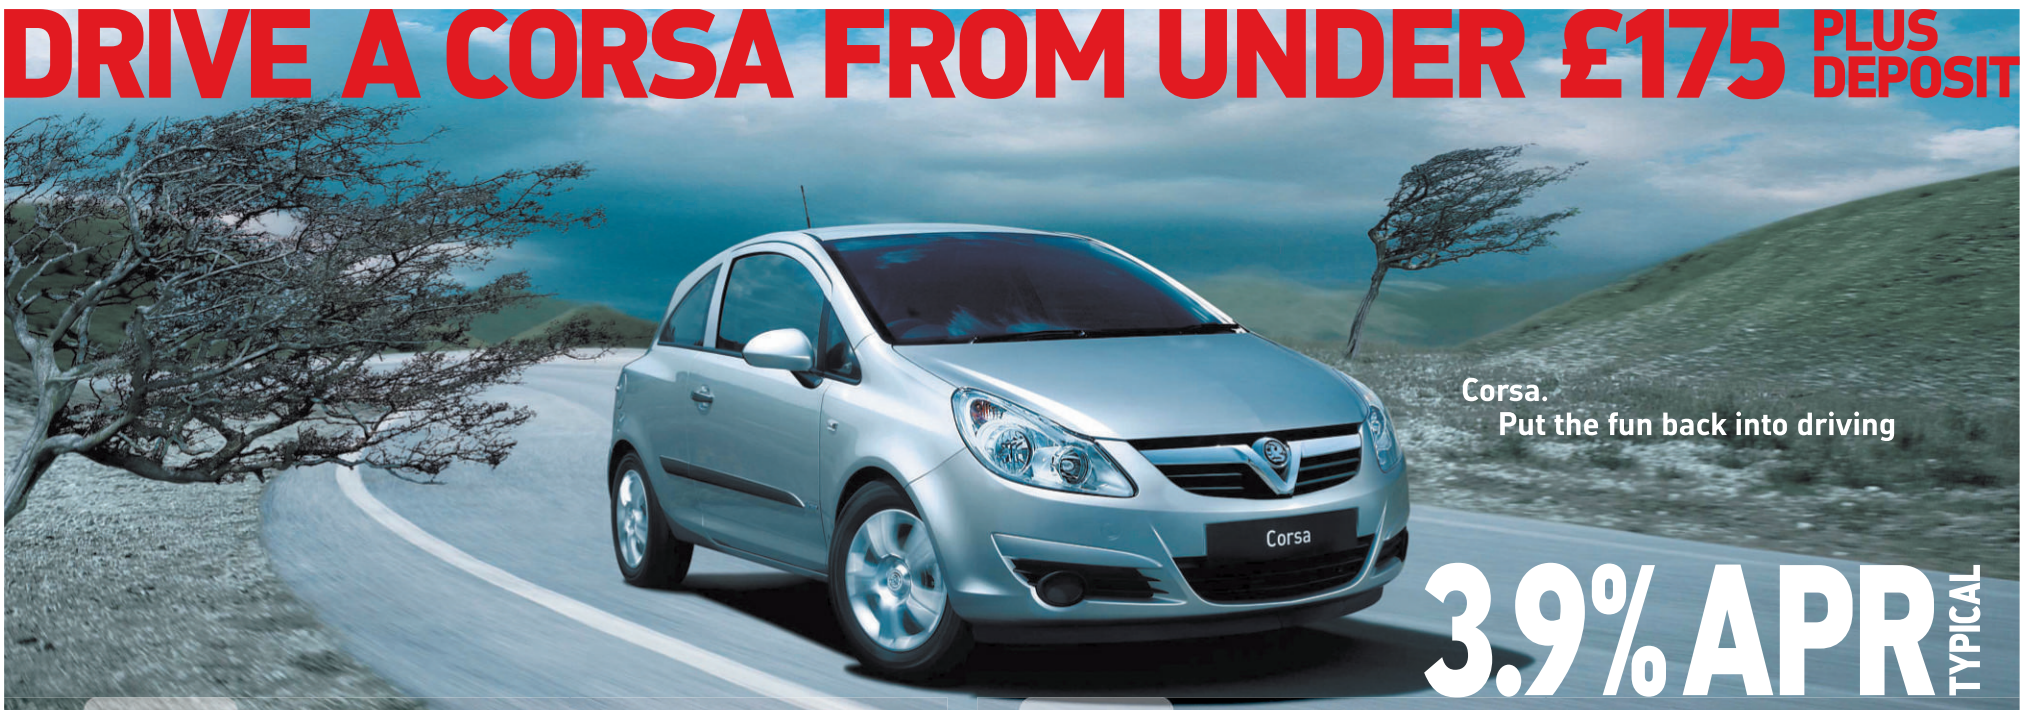

A growing concern, following the government's move to reclassify cannabis, is driving under the influence of drugs.

The Transport Research Laboratory reveals that, last year, nearly one in five victims of fatal car accidents had drugs in their bloodstream. Although the presence of drugs is not in itself identified as the cause of these accidents, drugs are clearly a significant factor, affecting co-ordination, visual perception and vigilance.

Recent research from Green Flag revealed six per cent of drivers admitted to taking illegal drugs and driving and, if the law becomes more lenient, this could get worse.

MKG3000 SUBARU

Twickenham Town Centre bought to stand still

Twickenham High Street was brought to a standstill by a car transporter last week but the vehicle hadn't got a puncture, jack-knifed, or shed its load. It simply parked perfectly legally outside MKG 3000, London's largest Subaru dealer. It wasn't the transporter itself that was causing the obstruction but rather what was on it. The vehicle was loaded with brand new Subaru Imprezas.

The Japanese manufacturer's new hatchback has been known to stop traffic with its stunning looks but the six models on this transporter managed to empty the shops and had passers by grabbing for their camera phones. The reason being that three of them were upside down.

The car transporter provoking all the double takes was serving its purpose well, namely to draw attention to the launch of the all new Subaru Impreza. The vehicle is touring the country carrying six Imprezas but while the top three are displayed in conventional fashion, the trios on the bottom most certainly are not. The cars are suspended upside-down with their wheels clamped to the ceiling of the transporter's lower deck. It isn't a sight you see everyday it may well be one that shoppers on Twickenham High Street will never see again. People who thought they were witnessing a new method for getting cars from A to B were sadly mistaken.

The car transporter was all part of Subaru's 'Subaglue' promotion which is designed to remind everyone how well the Impreza 'sticks to the road'. Driving one along the ceiling is still not an option but there's a lot of truth in Subaru's claims. You see the new Impreza brings a new dimension to the family hatch market in that it's the only vehicle in the sector that comes with four-wheel-drive as standard. Drawing upon Subaru's legendary rally heritage, the car produces outstanding levels of grip and security even on the slipperiest roads.

The amount of technology crammed into the car really is remarkable, especially as the starting price is just £12,495. With its charismatic 'Boxer' engines and five-door body style, the car delivers a fine blend of driver enjoyment with fantastic road holding but also with safeguard and practicality. Of course, this wouldn't be a Subaru Impreza without a great range of high-performance rally-replica derivatives and the WRX and forthcoming WRX STi are amongst the most capable performance hatchbacks on the market.

Local dealership MKG3000 has the full Impreza range in stock now and available for test drive so before you settle for a front-wheel-drive hatchback, why not call in to the Twickenham High Street showroom and see just how much Subaru 4 wheel drive Impreza you can get for your money?

SUBAGLUE.

FROM ONLY £12,495, IT STICKS TO ROADS AND BUDGETS.

The all new Subaru Impreza sticks to the road.
That's because it's the only hatchback with permanent Symmetrical All-Wheel Drive. It comes with a 1.5 litre or 2.0 litre Boxer engine as well as ABS, driver, passenger, side and curtain airbags. Not to mention air conditioning, CD/MP3 capability, alloy wheels and much more.
Prices from £12,495 OTR.*

Casuals pay late penalty

Corinthian Casuals' recent good form was blown off course by Burgess Hill Town as they went down 2-1 at King George's Field on Saturday.

Burgess Hill took a fifth minute lead through Danny Gainsford.

But after their keeper Colin Harris made a series of fine saves, Casuals equalised when Tyrone Myton spotted a weak back pass and levelled the scores with a shot off the post.

Harris made another great save to deny Steve Harper, but Burgess Hill won the match with a 78th-minute penalty after a foul from Luke Gay.

Harper fired the spot-kick hard and low to the keeper's left.

Casuals threw caution to the wind, but Gay was twice denied by the Town keeper.

Chess too late

A late rally was not enough to save Chessington & Hook from a 4-3 defeat at Guildford City in the Combined Counties League on Saturday.

Having fallen behind after just 13 seconds, Chessington levelled after 22 minutes when Phil Page brought down Richard Webber's cross and scored from 15 yards.

It all went wrong after that as Guildford raced into a 4-1 lead by half-time.

But Chessington dominated the second half and Danny Bennett scored from an acute angle in the 70th minute.

Gary Puckett then got a third with a lovely header, but Guildford leapfrog Chessington into third in the table.

Chessington visit Chertsey Town on Saturday and Sandhurst Town on Tuesday in the Southern Combination Cup.

Dowson: We'll get it right

by STUART AMOS

samos@london.newsquest.co.uk

Boss Alan Dowson says he would have subsituted the whole Kingstonian team if he could as they slumped 2-0 at Worthing on Saturday.

Wes Goggin, Danny Summers and Saheed Sankoh were hauled off as Ks' six-match unbeaten run in Ryman League Division One South came to an abrupt halt.

Met Police are the only top-six side Ks have defeated so far this season, although they beat this Saturday's visitors Cray Wanderers in the League Cup in October.

Dowson, who hopes to welcome back Liam Cockerill, Bobby Traynor, Jamie Beer and Jason Turley, is backing his side to return to winning ways quickly.

"There were a few harsh words in the dressing room, but they will remain between me and the lads," he said.

"Nobody performed in the second half – even the substitutes I brought on. I can't believe we were that bad.

"We will bounce back. The fans have been great this season, but they tend to go over the top when we win and it is doom and gloom when we lose. There is no middle ground.

"I have always said to judge the team when we have our best players available and that is starting to happen now.

"This is a much better league than when I got promotion with Walton & Hersham and there are still 80-odd points to play for.

"It is where we are at the end of the campaign that counts."

Dowson, who is approaching his first anniversary as Ks boss, has overseen a turnaround in the club's fortunes.

After finishing in mid-table last season, they are fourth after 17 games this time around, with third-placed Cray on the horizon.

"We are in the mix at the minute and I will be delighted if we are still there in February," Dowson added.

"Dover were six points clear at the top last Christmas and never made the play-offs.

"We will review things in the New Year, but I am happy with where we are."

Champions all: Kingston Grammar School's U14, U16 and U18 girls teams have completed a unique treble

KGS hockey girls making own history

Kingston Grammar School have completed a hockey first by claiming the U14, U16 and U18 Surrey titles.

The U12s only narrowly missed out on making it a clean sweep, finishing as runners-up in their tournament.

The U16s have gone one stage further by becoming South of England Champions, which means they will compete in the national finals in the spring, while the U18s were runners-up in their South of England tournament. The U14s' southern round is on January 10.

Head of hockey Denis Buttanshaw said: "To be Surrey Champions in three age groups is a fantastic and historic achievement."

REGULAR SPORT UPDATES at yourlocalguardian.co.uk

SPORTS*brief*

RUGBY UNION: Kingston extended their lead at the top of Surrey One to four points with a 16-0 win at third-placed Old Whitgiftians on Saturday. A first half try by scrum half Joe Best and two penalties by Jonathon Morris gave the Kingston side a 13-0 lead at half-time. A further penalty in the second half secured the win, but Kingston had to draw on all the reserves to keep their determined opponents from scoring after the break. This Saturday, Kingston visit Battersea Ironsides for a fifth round EDF Junior Vase tie.

FOOTBALL: The Chelsea Ladies Football Academy, based at Kingston College, have qualified for next year's British Colleges National Five-a-side championships. The girls were runners-up at the National Championships and will be looking to go one step further when they visit Loughborough University for the competition in April.
